A Letter From The Dean

Dear Alumni:

We have completed another year at the College of Law, and I am happy to report that it has been a year of growth and progress. The number of applications for admission to the College of Law increased this year, and the quality of applicants is substantially greater than that of applicants in past years. However, even in light of the improved applicant pool, we remain committed to reviewing each file individually so that we can identify students with strong desire and proven performance in jobs and other fields of endeavor and provide them the opportunity to become lawyers. The evening program continues to be extremely popular, and, once again, more students have enrolled in the evening program than we had anticipated.

As a result of a vigorous recruiting program during the last academic year, there are seven newcomers to the faculty this year. Detailed information about each of them is included in this issue. I hope that all of you will have the opportunity to meet and get to know these fine new faculty members in the coming months.

The Law Library continues to grow, and efforts are being maintained to complete the Law Library fund drive. I want to remind each of you that you are welcome to use this fine library for research to aid you in your practice or other job activities.

Finally, I want to share with all of you our pride in the recent appointments of Judges Aldrich and White to the Federal District Court for the Northern District of Ohio. Not only are we delighted in the selection of these two fine judges, but we are also proud of the fact that individuals associated with the law school continue to be recognized for their fine lawyering talents and to be selected to fill responsible and important positions in our community.

I look forward to seeing all of you during the course of the coming academic year.

Sincerely,

Robert L. Bogomolny
Dean

A Letter From The Alumni President

Once again we begin a new year for the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law Alumni Association. As your President for 1980-81, I plan to continue the fine programs of our immediate past president, Judge Frederick M. Coleman.

Among the many successful events of last year were: October Bar Results Party welcoming new members to the Bar; January Domestic Relations Institute at the Old Stone Church; Law Alumni Association Moot Court Competition Awards presented at the College of Law Awards Ceremony; Recognition Luncheon (1980 honoree, the Honorable George J. McMonagle); Open House and class reunions for 1930 and 1955; and reception for newly confirmed U.S. District Court Judges for the Northern District of Ohio, Judge Ann Aldrich and Judge George White. I hope that most of you were able to join us for these and other school/alumni occasions.

The Law Alumni’s goal “to advance the cause of legal education for the legal profession, to promote the interests and increase the usefulness of the Cleveland-Marshall College of Law, and to promote mutual acquaintance and good fellowship among all members of the Association” is a continual challenge. Your support of and active participation in our programs are the basis for their success.

I urge each one of you to renew your membership (if you haven’t already done so) and to attend our functions. You will be impressed by the professional quality of the Association’s seminars as well as enjoy the contact and camaraderie of your fellow alumni.

I look forward to greeting you in the near future.

George W. White, C-M '55
U. S. District Court Judge

In his last bid for re-election, the Hon. George W. White ran unopposed for his seat on the bench of the Common Pleas Court of Cuyahoga County. White, a member of the Cleveland-Marshall graduating Class of 1955, need not go through even the formality of an election anymore. On June 6, 1980, White was sworn in as a United States District Judge for the Northern District of Ohio.

The swearing in of Judge White, 49, was the culmination of a nine-month-long process. Senator John Glenn nominated White to President Carter last October 12. On March 28, President Carter approved the nomination and sent it to the Senate Judiciary Committee. The Judiciary Committee subsequently approved the nomination and turned it over to the full Senate, which also approved it.

On May 23, 1980, President Carter signed the commission of the Senate. All that remained was the swearing in. With that accomplished, George Washington White became the first black ever to sit in the Northern District.

Judge White first came to Cleveland in 1948. He came from Duquesne, Pennsylvania, to study business at Baldwin-Wallace College.

After graduating from B-W, White enrolled in Cleveland-Marshall's four-year night school program. While attending C-M, White first worked at Burrows and later at the Federal Reserve Bank.

White operated as a sole practitioner for a year after gaining admittance to the Ohio Bar. A four-year stint as a referee in the Domestic Relations Division of the Court of Common Pleas followed.

White then worked for the Legal Aid Society for little more than a year and afterward returned to private practice. He continued his private practice even after winning election to Cleveland City Council in 1963.

White represented Ward 13, the Lee-Harvard-Shaker-Warrensville area, from 1963 to 1968.

In 1968, White was nominated by the Democratic Party as its candidate in an election to fill the unexpired term of then-Judge Hugh Corrigan on the Court of Common Pleas. Corrigan had resigned his judicial seat to become a Cuyahoga County Commissioner in 1968.

White was successful in his bid and served the remaining two years of Corrigan's term. In 1976, White ran unopposed, as previously mentioned, for another six-year term.

The Judge's wife, Mrs. Lillian White, obtained a master's degree in education from CWRU. She works as a school adjustment counselor at Moreland Hills School in Shaker Heights.

The Whites have three children. David, 24, is a graduate of Georgetown University, and he has an MBA from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School. Lori, 17, graduated this year from Orange High School. Steven, 14, will be a sophomore at Orange in the fall.

The Cleveland-Marshall community joins in the pride of the entire White family and offers its sincere best wishes to Judge White in his new career.

Placement Notes:

Random Samplings from the Placement Department... The Class of 1980 at Cleveland-Marshall has been doing extremely well in the Placement area. As of this date, 60% of our graduates are placed, and the average starting salary for a legal position is $18,400, up over $1,000 from last year... 17 of our new graduates will be clerking for judges, and three previous grads have just been appointed to judicial clerkship posts... Interestingly, the largest number of graduates will be working in small (3-5 persons) law offices. Government work, always popular with our graduates, is No. 2 on the preferred list. This includes federal, state, county and local government... The statistic we feel best about is that 37% (as of this writing) got their jobs through the Placement Office. (Employment agencies brag when they reach the 25% level)... Over three dozen law firms, government agencies, accounting firms, and public services are scheduled to interview on campus this fall, and this represents, again, an increase over last year. More are expected to sign on before our first interview session in October.
Jose Feliciano

Cleveland’s New Police Prosecutor — Jose Feliciano

Jose C. Feliciano, Cleveland-Marshall Class of 1975, was appointed on February 26, 1980, by Cleveland Mayor George Voinovich to the position of Police Prosecutor of the City of Cleveland.

Feliciano replaced the respected Almeta Johnson who resigned to form a private practice.

Feliciano is the first member of Cleveland’s Hispanic community to be appointed to such a position of authority in Cleveland municipal government, and he is mindful of the fact. He called his appointment “an historic moment for the Hispanic community and the City of Cleveland.”

“The problems of the poor are caused by differences in lifestyles, and are manifested in ways that are technically crimes.” Jose Feliciano.

“I have a commitment to the Hispanic community as I do to the other ethnic groups,” he continued. “Too long they have not been given recognition. Unfortunately, the only way for a group to get recognition in society is through government.”

He was born in Puerto Rico and moved with his family to Cleveland at the age of two. Though he lived on Cleveland’s west side, he traveled to Cathedral Latin High School in the University Circle area. He was graduated from Latin in 1968 and went on to John Carroll University, from which he graduated in 1972.

While attending C-M full time, Feliciano worked for the Legal Aid Society. He later served there as an intern.

Feliciano has been actively involved in volunteer community work since he was 19 years old. He views his appointment to the prosecutor’s position as an opportunity to effect social reform.

“I’m aware of the problems of the poor,” he says. “They are social in nature.

“The problems are caused by differences in lifestyles, and are manifested in ways that are technically crimes.

“I’m aware of the problems of the poor; they’re social in nature.”

“I’m not sure that the criminal justice system is the place to work these problems out. Notwithstanding, I have to take my understanding and plug it into the system.”

Feliciano oversees a staff of 16 attorneys.

He and his wife, Mary Colleen—“Molly”—, live with their two-year-old son, Jose Jr., in the Shaker Square area of Cleveland.

Alumni Notes:

Ronald B. Adrine, C-M ’73, has been elected President of the newly formed Norman S. Minor Bar Association, which is a black attorneys’ bar association named in the memory of the prominent black criminal law attorney.

Patricia P. Anderson, C-M ’76, has been named by Governor James Rhodes to a nine-year term on the Cleveland State University Board of Trustees.

Mark W. Baserman, C-M ’78, previously a member of the Wayne County Public Defender’s Office, has become an associate member of the law firm of Logee, Hostetler, Stutzman & Broehl in Wooster, Ohio.

Robert S. Bouffard, C-M ’78, is now associated with the law firm of Copperman, Zlotnick & Copperman in Youngstown, Ohio.

Sandy R. Cameron, C-M ’76, has been elected an assistant counsel in the Law Department of Central National Bank of Cleveland.

Michael J. Cargill, C-M ’79, has been elected vice president of Edward Howard & Co., a Cleveland based public relations consulting firm.

Frank A. Chenette, C-M ’76, formerly of Bierbower & Rockefeller in Washington, D.C., has entered into a partnership in the general practice of law with Jeffrey H. Friedman under the name of Friedman and Chenette in Cleveland.

Franklin B. Comery, C-M ’74, has been named assistant superintendent of industrial relations at Republic Steel Corporation’s Cleveland steel plant.

Lawrence Grey, C-M ’69, is presently serving as a judge on the bench of the Fourth District Court of Appeals in Athens, Ohio. Grey reports that he will be running for the Ohio Supreme Court for the term beginning January 1, 1981.

William Dennis, C-M ’80, has been appointed a law clerk to Judge Grey.

Ralph Hennie, C-M '53, has been named general manager of Republic Steel Corporation's Steel and Tubes Division.

Thomas G. Hermann, C-M '69, was admitted to the firm of Squire, Sanders & Dempsey. Hermann joined the firm's Cleveland offices.

Ann Levin, C-M '80, has been named director of the Cuyahoga County Office of Employment and Training Administration. Ms. Levin was also featured last August in a Cleveland Press feature story which spotlighted young people on the move.

Fred Lick, Jr., C-M '61, President and chief executive officer of Central Reserve Life Corporation, has been named to a second term as Deputy Chancellor of Delta Theta Phi, a national law fraternity. Lick was also named as the 1979 recipient of the fraternity's outstanding alumnus award in recognition of his business and fraternity accomplishments.

Nick A. Mandanici, C-M '56, the Law Director of the City of Warrensville Heights for the past 13 years, has been appointed by the Ohio Supreme Court to the Board of Bar Examiners for a term of five years commencing April 1, 1980.

Sherry McCreary, C-M '78, and Stephen L. Fedor, C-M, '80, have been named law clerks to newly appointed U.S. Federal District Court Judge Ann Aldrich.

James J. McGuire, C-M '74, has been elected an assistant trust officer of Central Reserve Life Corporation, and has been named law clerk to newly appointed U.S. District Court Judge Ann Aldrich.

Lawrence S. Snitzky, C-M '65, has been promoted to the position of superintendent of industrial relations-management development and personnel at Republic Steel Corporation's Cleveland steel plant.

C. Anthony Stavole, C-M '68, and Dwight A. Miller, C-M '71, have formed a partnership for the general practice of law under the name of Stavole & Miller. Their offices are located in downtown Cleveland.

Kathleen Ann Sutula, C-M '76, has been appointed an Assistant U.S. Attorney by U.S. Attorney James R. Williams. Miss Sutula, who until recently was an Assistant Cuyahoga County Prosecutor, has been assigned to the civil division.

Fred F. Valins, C-M '76, has been named administrative and government activities supervisor for Vistron Corp., a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of Ohio (Sohio). Prior to this appointment, Valins was with Sohio's transportation accounting unit.

Gilbert Weil, C-L '30, writes from Naples, Florida, that he has been appointed to the Naples Public Employees Relations Commission. Mr. Weil maintains an office in Naples, though he now resides in Naples.

Leo Weiss, C-M '56, President of A & C Auto Parts & Wrecking Company, has been elected Councilman-At-Large in the City of Beachwood, Ohio.
McMonagle Feted — 1980 Outstanding Alumnus

McMonagle, the "man-of-the-year," was honored for his fifty years of service to the Cleveland legal community. His Honor had formally retired from the Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Court, but he sits there again now by assignment from Chief Justice Celebreze of the Ohio Supreme Court.

Prior to his election and subsequent appointment to the bench, Judge McMonagle engaged in the general practice of law for more than thirty years. In addition, he has served as Special Counsel to the Ohio Attorney General, and as Special Assistant Prosecuting Attorney of Cuyahoga County.

Judge McMonagle has been appointed by the Ohio Supreme Court to serve on several committees. He has received twelve awards for outstanding judicial service from the Ohio Supreme Court.

Judge Frederick M. Coleman, C-M '53, then President of the Cleveland-Marshall Law Alumni Association, presented Judge McMonagle with the 1980 Outstanding Alumnus Award.

Congressman Charles A. Vanik, the 13-term representative of Ohio's 22nd District, was the featured speaker of the program.
33rd Annual C-M Alumni Association Meeting

Reunions for Classes of '30, '55
Lawrence Rich Heads New Slate of Officers

At 4:00 p.m. on Friday, June 13, 1980, Judge Frederick M. Coleman called to order the 33rd Annual Meeting of the Cleveland-Marshall Alumni Association in the C-M Moot Court Room Auditorium. Judge Coleman immediately introduced Leo Rossman, C-M '29, who submitted the Treasurer's Report. The Treasurer's Report was unanimously accepted.

The next order of business on the agenda was the introduction and swearing-in of the new officers and trustees for the next year. After performing this — his last official act as the President of the Cleveland-Marshall Law Alumni Association — Judge Coleman passed the ceremonial gavel to his successor in office, Larry Rich, C-M '67.

At this point, Dean Bogomolny took the opportunity to thank the alumni for the $50,000 given by them to the Cleveland-Marshall Law Library Fund Drive.

A dinner followed in the Atrium of the law school. Monsignor A. J. Quinn, C-M '71, delivered the invocation and memorial address.

The meeting and dinner also served as the occasion of the 25-year reunion of the Class of 1955 and the 50-year reunion of the Class of 1930.

William D. Carl and Richard L. Phillips, co-chairmen of the reunion for the Class of 1955, were presented certificates of recognition from Judge Coleman. Also presented certificates from the Class of 1955 were Owen McCafferty and William Blackie. Carl and Phillips then presented a Class Gift to Dean Bogomolny, a check in the amount of $790.00 for the Judge David C. Meck Memorial Fund.

The Class of 1955 started the Meck Fund. The Meck Fund, and others like it, is used for emergency loans to needy law students.

Judge George McMonagle was the chairman of the reunion of the Class of 1930. McMonagle personally introduced each member of the Class to the gathering and presented each with a certificate.

In attendance from the Class of 1930 were:

Cleveland-Marshall 1980 Alumni Association Officers
Lawrence Rich, '67  President
Ranelle Gamble, '72  1st Vice President
Frank Cumberland, '74  2nd Vice President
William T. Monroe, '53  3rd Vice President

Ohio Association Of Broadcasters Starts FOIA Section At C-M; Carl Stern (C-M '66) Keynotes Dedication

L-R: Dean Robert Bogomolny; Mel Arnold (Chairman of Law Library Fund Drive); Neal Van Ells (WKYC-TV General Manager); Walter Waeljen (President, CSU); Carl Stern (NBC News).

"Using what we have here in the Freedom Of Information Act is one way of maintaining and strengthening the fiber of our democracy."

Carl Stern

The Ohio Association of Broadcasters (OAB) has donated $1,000 to purchase materials needed to start a Freedom Of Information Act section in the Bartunek Library of Cleveland-Marshall Law School.

NBC Nightly News Supreme Court Correspondent Carl Stern (C-M '66) was the featured speaker at the dedication ceremonies, which took place November 2, 1979.

Neal Van Ells, Vice-President and General Manager of WKYC-TV3 and the President of the OAB, presented the $1,000 check to C-M Dean Robert Bogomolny.

Van Ells indicated that this was the first instance in which such a gift had been made to a law school by a broadcasting organization for the purpose of establishing an FOIA collection.

The collection is located in the browsing lounge of the Bartunek Library.

For Stern, the opportunity to deliver the keynote address also proved to be something of a homecoming. Stern worked as a radio newsman and, later, a television newsman for KYW after coming to Cleveland in 1959. Before leaving in 1966 to join the national staff of NBC News, Stern had made many acquaintances among Cleveland's judges, legislators, and fellow newsmen. Many were on hand for his return.

Stern was selected to deliver the address, however, because he was instrumental in bringing the FOIA to prominence.

In 1973, Stern won a landmark FOIA lawsuit in which he sought to require the FBI to disclose the operation of its "Cointelpro" program which was disrupting New Left political organizations. (See Stern v. Richardson, 367 F. Supp. 1316, (1973).)

Using the information he received from his FOIA lawsuit, Stern wrote a story on how the FBI had made a practice of harassing and disrupting political organizations with whose philosophies the FBI disagreed.

For this story, Stern was awarded the coveted George Foster Peabody Award for "exceptional journalistic enterprise."
Aldrich Leaves for Federal Bench

Professor Ann Aldrich, a member of the faculty of Cleveland-Marshall since 1968, became Federal District Court Judge (for the Northern District of Ohio) Ann Aldrich when President Carter signed her commission on May 24, 1980.

Aldrich joins the federal bench in Cleveland at the same time as does Judge George White, C-M '55. Together they join Judges John Manos, C-M '50, and Thomas Lambros, C-M '50, thus lending a distinctively Cleveland-Marshall character to the local federal judiciary.

The loss of Aldrich is a major one to the faculty of the law school. She was the only faculty member who possessed three law degrees (LLB, LLM, JSD — all from New York University). It was her versatility which made her invaluable. At C-M, Aldrich has taught Constitutional Law, Equity, Federal Jurisdiction, Appellate Advocacy, Jurisprudence, Environmental Law, Brief Writing, Legal Writing, International Law, and Mass Communications Law.

Judge Aldrich becomes the first woman to sit as a judge in any of Ohio's federal districts.

Markus to Sit at Harvard

Judge Richard M. Markus, an adjunct member of the C-M faculty for the past 21 years and a Cuyahoga County Common Pleas Judge since 1976, has announced that he will resign from both positions to become a professor at Harvard Law School.

At Harvard, from which he graduated in 1954, Markus will teach Trial Practice, Evidence, and Professional Ethics. At Cleveland-Marshall, Markus has taught a perennially popular course in Litigation Essentials.

In 1978, Judge Markus was ranked first among Cuyahoga County’s Common Pleas Judges in The Cleveland Press “Judging the Judges” series. In 1979 he was honored as the outstanding Ohio trial judge of the year by the Ohio Academy of Trial Lawyers.

Judge Markus has on several occasions served as a judge for Cleveland-Marshall Moot Court competitions, including twice in this last school year. Loyal to the last, Judge Markus accepted the opportunity to deliver the commencement address to the graduating Class of 1980 on Sunday, June 15, at the Palace Theatre.

Cleveland-Marshall’s loss is truly Harvard’s gain.

Tyler Moves to Singapore

Ralph S. Tyler, Assistant Professor and the Director of C-M’s Clinical Legal Education, resigned from the faculty of Cleveland-Marshall effective June 18, 1980, to join the faculty of law at the University of Singapore as a lecturer in law.

Professor Tyler has also recently written “School Desegregation Litigation in the Supreme Court: The Development of a Jurisprudence of Remedies for Complex Constitutional Cases,” which appears in 28 Emory Law Journal No. 4.

Associate Professor Ronald H. Rosenberg appeared as a panelist at the annual AALS meeting in Phoenix, Arizona, for a Section on Art and Law. He spoke about the federal archeological protection law.

Professor Rosenberg has also written two law review articles which have been accepted for publication. The first dealt with the Endangered Species Act and appears in the North Carolina Law Review. The second one was concerned with “archeological resources protection” and appears in the Arizona Law Review.

Since the first of this year, Professor J. Patrick Browne has published three new articles on the Ohio Rules of Civil Procedure, and is reasonably hard at work on another. The new articles are “Ohio Civil Rule 8(C) and Related Rules: Some Notes on the Pleading of Affirmative Defenses,” in 27 Cleveland State Law Review, at page 329; “Local Rules of Court,” in 13 Akron Law Review, at page 277; and “Civil Rule 11: The Signature and Signature Block,” in 9 Capital University Law Review, at page 291.

Assistant Professor Frederic White has written “The Cleveland Housing Court: An Analysis,” which is to be published in the fall 1980 issue of the Cleveland State Law Review. In addition, White has co-authored (with Professor Ralph Tyler) the Rules of Criminal Procedure for the Housing Division of the Cleveland Municipal Court, 1980.

In November of 1979, White appeared as a panelist on “Ask the Expert Night” on WJKW-TV in Cleveland.

White also served on the Practice and Procedure Clinic Committee of the Greater Cleveland Bar Association, which helped establish a Bar Association program aimed at helping newly admitted attorneys. The program ran for the first three months of 1980.

In addition, White has been appointed to the Central Committee for Development of the Eliza Bryant Center for the Aged.

Associate Professor Peter D. Garlock participated in a panel discussion on "Alternative Approaches to Status Offense Problems" at the Second National Juvenile Justice Legislative Advocacy Conference, presented by the National Juvenile Law Center, Inc., in St. Louis, Missouri, November 11-13, 1979.

Garlock had also previously attended the Annual Meeting of the American Society for Legal History in Williamsburg, Virginia, October 10-27, 1979.

Further, Professor Garlock was awarded the Howard L. Oleck Award for Outstanding Legal Writing by the Faculty, during the 1978-1979 school year for his article, “Wayward Children and the Law, 1820-1900: The Genesis of the Status Offense Jurisdiction of the Juvenile Court,” which appears in 13 Georgia L. Rev. 341 (1979).

Professor Lizabeth A. Moody appeared recently as a speaker before the Toledo Bar Association. The title of her speech was “We Have Not Done Those Things We Ought To Have Done: Directors’ Duties in Non-Profit Organizations.” She also recently delivered an address before the National Seminar on Non-Profit Organizations, in St. Petersburg, Florida. Her topic on that occasion was “Securities Issues of Non-Profit Organizations.”

In addition, Professor Moody supervised the work of her students in her non-profit corporations class in forming a non-profit tax-exempt corporation to administer a $25,000 loan fund for Trinity Cathedral’s neighborhood revitalization effort.

The corporation will make loans to responsible neighborhood organizations and, through them, to property owners and retailers. The idea is for them to secure other funds from foundations, banks, and governmental agencies for commercial and residential projects.

Associate Professor Louis B. Geneva served as a panelist in the 1979 Cleveland Tax Institute on November 2, 1979. He spoke to the area of “tax aspects of employee fringe benefits.”

Geneva also participated in an Estate Planning Workshop sponsored by the Lake County Cooperative Extension Service. The workshop met on February 26, 1980, and on March 18, 1980.

Professor Stephen J. Werber has been elected a member of the Board of Trustees of Temple Emanu-El. On July 18, he delivered an address to the Congregation on “Judicial and Legal Ethics — A Biblical and Talmudic View.”

Professor Hyman Cohen participated in a seminar on Public Sector Grievance Arbitration sponsored by the Industrial Relations Center, Cleveland State University, the American Arbitration Association, and the Bar Association of Greater Cleveland. Professor Cohen spoke on “Impact of External Law in Public Sector Grievance Arbitration.”

Professor Anita Morse, the Director of the Cleveland-Marshall Law Library, has published a workbook on “Food, Drug, Cosmetics, and Medical Advice Law” through the Office of Consumer Affairs of the Food and Drug Administration for the National Consumer Awareness and Access Project at George Washington University.

Professor Morse has also published “Law Librarianship: The Continuing Need for Professional Education,” in 72 Law Library Journal 586.

In addition, Professor Morse delivered a speech at the Regional Association of Law Libraries meeting, May 23, 1980, in Cleveland, on “The Role of the Law School in On-Line Legal Research Instruction.”

Professor David Forte was a Faculty Lecturer at Duquesne University School of Law on February 27, 1980. The title of his address was “Islam and International Law.”

On May 23, 1980, Professor Forte delivered a paper on “Islamic Law in American Courts” to a conference on Middle Eastern Law at Columbia University. Professor Forte has also written “Ideology and History,” an article which appears in the current issue of the Georgia Law Review.
Faculty Notes:

Professor Richard Kuhns, an instructor in Criminal Law and Evidence, has left Cleveland-Marshall after a year's leave of absence to assume a teaching position at the University of Iowa Law School.

Professor Harold Babbit, an instructor in Torts, Local Government Law, and Ethics has left the faculty of Cleveland-Marshall to join the law firm of Calfee, Halter & Griswold in Cleveland.

Seven new faculty members have been recruited. The new professors are: Joel Jay Finer, Professor of Law, B.B.A. 1959, City College of New York; M.A. (Economics), 1963, Yale University; LL.B. Results of Alumni Questionnaire

Over 1100 alumni responded to the Alumni Questionnaire distributed during the recent Self-Study conducted by the College of Law. "This was an excellent response and demonstrates the continuing interest and concern of our graduates in the progress of Cleveland-Marshall," commented Dean Robert L. Bogomolny. The Study was an integral part of the accreditation reinspection of the American Bar Association and the Association of American Law Schools.

Of the respondents, 975 were male and 146 were female. Almost all are members of the Bar; 92% are admitted to practice in Ohio, with some 29% admitted in another state as well. Approximately three quarters of those who practice law are in private practice with much smaller numbers working in government and for corporations. Nearly all graduates feel the school's reputation is the same or better than when they attended. Over 95% feel the education they received was good or excellent. Alumni recommended continued attention to faculty development and strengthening the evening program.

Despite the fact that 63% of the respondents work in Cleveland or its suburbs, fewer than 20% report using the library. Fewer still make use of the placement service or attend alumni functions. Significant interest was expressed in continuing legal education programs.

"We will use the questionnaire responses to guide the planning and development of alumni programs so that we can continue to serve the interests and needs of our own legal community," Dean Bogomolny stated.
