

Cleveland State University

EngagedScholarship@CSU

Newspaper Coverage

Terry v. Ohio

10-20-1966

66/10/20 Police Can Search, High Court Rules

Cleveland Press

Follow this and additional works at: https://engagedscholarship.csuohio.edu/terryvohio_newspaper

Part of the Constitutional Law Commons

How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!

Recommended Citation

Cleveland Press, "66/10/20 Police Can Search, High Court Rules" (1966). Newspaper Coverage. 13.
https://engagedscholarship.csuohio.edu/terryvohio_newspaper/13

This Book is brought to you for free and open access by the Terry v. Ohio at EngagedScholarship@CSU. It has been accepted for inclusion in Newspaper Coverage by an authorized administrator of EngagedScholarship@CSU. For more information, please contact library.es@csuohio.edu.

Police Can Search, High Court Rules

PRESS OCT 20 66

Search by a policeman of a person observed acting in a suspicious manner does not violate his constitutional rights, the Ohio Supreme Court ruled today.

The court dismissed the appeals of two Cleveland men who had been convicted of carrying concealed weapons in 1963. Detective Martin McFadden, a 39-year veteran of the Cleveland Police Department, searched the pair at E. 14th St. and Euclid Ave. in October, 1963, after seeing them looking into a jewelry store.

He found a revolver on each man. McFadden testified he believed they were preparing to rob the store.

Defendants were Richard D. Chilton, 28, of 16101 Lotus Dr., and John W. Terry, 33, of 1275 E. 105th St. 