The following is the statement of HENRY FUEHRER, W.M. 51 yrs (2-14-03) married in reference to the Marilyn Sheppard Homicide.

Now HENRY FUEHRER, you have come forward with information pertaining to the homicide of Marilyn Sheppard and the following is your statement. Anything that you say now can be used for or against you. Now that you understand this do you wish to tell us the truth about this matter.

HENRY FUEHRER: I arrived in Cleveland, Ohio from Toledo, Ohio by bus the evening of July 2, 1954. I hung around the bus station and slept there that night. The next day, July 3, 1954 I wandered around and went into a saloon. About 11:00 A.M. I met a guy who called himself "Pal". We got to drinking and I told him I had come from Tennessee where I had done time for burglary. He later told me that he done time and when I asked him where he told me not to ask to many questions, he was getting drunk. About three o'clock in the afternoon after moving around from tavern to tavern he suggested to knock a joint off that night. I was interested in his car, a Black Ford, around a 1951 figuring I could take it and go to Tennessee to see my wife, so I stuck with him., hoping he would leave the car with the keys in it. He was cagy and at no time he left the car with the keys in it while I was in the car. Around seven o'clock that night we drove around town looking for joints to satisfy him, still hoping he would leave the keys in the car. We went into a couple of joints and drank and drove around some more but didn't find anything to suit him. I wasn't interested so it didn't worry me. He got drunk and mean talking and after the joints started closing up he said "I'm going to get some money if I have to beat somebodys head off for it". He said we'll go out to Bay Village where peoples got money, I thought thats OK, this time he will leave the keys in the car. We drove around for a while, maybe a hour, talking and looking over places. I was in the back seat and got sleepy, I beleive that the 1st place we pulled up to that he didn't have his lights on. He got out of the car and took some tools with him, and said wait for me here I will be back. I looked at the switch and he had taken the keys with him again. I thought this bastard doesn't trust me just like I don't trust him. I thought about getting out of the car then and leaving, I then changed my mind and decided that I would stay with him till I got the Ford. Then I dozed for a while in the back seat. I don't know how long I was there when I roused up and lit a cigarette when I heard what I thought was a fight off to the right. I thought here is a burglary that has backfired, I got out of the car and took off running. I ran away from the back of the car down the road a peice, then t/hugh open fields, grass and weeds until a came to a creek bank. I followed the creek bank to a bridge, and finnaily worked my way back to a road and hitch-hiked back into Cleveland. I got into Cleveland about 4 to 4:30 A.M. I got a cab to the bus station where I got a bus for Toledo, Ohio. I got into Toledo sometime in the afternoon. That evening I went onto Detroit, Michigan. A couple of days later I read in the papers what happened in Bay Village. I have been thinking about it ever since.
