

All Articles

Newspaper Coverage

11-23-1954

54/11/23 Corrigan Photos Evidence

Cleveland Press

Follow this and additional works at: https://engagedscholarship.csuohio.edu/newspaper_coverage
How does access to this work benefit you? Let us know!

Corrigan Photos Evidence

During noon recess at the Sheppard trial today Defense Lawyer William S. Corrigan brought in his own photographer and started rummaging through the trial exhibits store in Bailiff Edgar Francis' closet.

Corrigan chased newspapermen away, but it was learned he had his cameraman copy around in that time by state's witnesses, lawyers for both sides and Judge Edward Blythin.

Sanford Lester and Norman Stern, the court reporters, say they've had no trouble keeping their stenotype machines abreast court proceedings, but Lester admitted it was a little rough keeping up with Deputy Coroner Lester Adelson when he was testifying.

That was because of the long medical terms he used constantly, Lester explained.

* * *

"Lippy" was the way Defense Attorney Fred Garmone pronounced the name of Patrolman Cy Lipaj when he cross-examined him today during the Sheppard murder trial.

The Bay Village policeman pronounces his name, "Lip-eye."

Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard was cheered today by news that his mother, Mrs. Ethel Sheppard, 64, was recovering at Bay View Hospital.

Mrs. Sheppard suffered a "mild stroke" last Thursday.

the state's photo of the slain Marilyn Sheppard's bloody pillow.

Dr. Sam's lawyer plans to use his own enlargement of the photo to refute the prosecution's claim that in a big bloodstain there is the outline of a surgical tool or some similar instrument.

* * *

Since testimony began in the Sheppard murder trial on Nov. 4, the court reporters who take down every word that's uttered have been averaging 35,625 words a day.

There have been 12 full days of testimony, through yesterday's session, so that means 427,500 words have been flung