Introduction

Health law concerns the practice and regulation of health care delivery, as well as medical malpractice and bioethics. This guide focuses on general health law resources which address topics such as the treatment relationship, duty to care, informed consent; health care professional licensure, medical liability and malpractice, health care spending, health insurance coverage, health care institutions, and health care business associations.

CSU OneSearch (beta)

OneSearch is CSU's beta federated search system, and is accessible from the Law Library home page (see box at upper right). It allows you to search multiple catalogs and databases at the same time, retrieving books, ebooks, audiovisual materials, articles, music scores, and more. Once connected, click Help at the top right for information on constructing searches and managing search results.
